

Married At First Sight Chapter 1571

Married at First Sight Chapter 1571—Elisa answered, “I think so, but I’ve never met him by chance. The Readings are too low-key.”

Remy hummed.

He had never paid attention to the Readings either.

The Readings’ business was not in Wiltspoon, and there was no collaboration between them and FC & Co. Their whole family kept a low profile, so Remy would not pay attention to them.

Now, Remy had to watch out for Mr. Reading.

For some reason, he felt that Mr. Reading would become his love rival.

Elisa did not know that Remy was already on guard, preventing Mr. Reading from becoming his love rival.

She asked Remy, “Are you not going home this holiday?”

Remy answered, “It’s just for a few days, so I’m too lazy to go back and forth. Besides, I have to keep an eye on the renovation here.”

He looked deeply at Elisa and added, “I’d prefer to go back with you.”

Elisa smiled and did not answer.

Nothing had happened between the two of them yet. It was still early for them to meet each other’s parents.

“I’ll go back inside first to help apply some ointment for my mom.”

“Okay.”

This time, Remy was not thick-faced and did not follow Elisa inside.

He stood at the villa entrance and watched her enter the main house before he turned around and walked back.

A few minutes later, Remy drove out alone in his car.

He returned after about half an hour.

Once he was back, he parked his car directly in front of the Stones’ villa and honked.

Soon, the Stones' maid came out. She saw that it was Remy and opened the villa gate for him to drive his car in.

Remy parked his car and then took the supplements which he had gone out to buy. He went into the house after the maid asked him to.

He wanted to visit his future mother-in-law, who sprained her foot, but he could not come empty-handed. This was why he did not insist on following Elisa into the house earlier-he had to go and buy some supplements.

Ointment had been applied on Mrs. Stone's foot.

Mrs. Stone kept telling her daughter about how good Mr. Reading was. She said she could not have come home if Mr. Reading had not been kind enough to stop his car and send her home. She forgot to bring her phone when she went out just now.

Clive and his wife looked at each other.

They were grateful that Mr. Reading sent their mom home.

However, they felt that something was wrong when Mrs. Stone overly praised Mr. Reading.

Alice discreetly nudged her husband, who was next to him, and whispered, "Clive, don't you think that Mom is excessively praising Mr. Reading? She seems to have something else in mind."

Although it was not nice of Alice to doubt her mother-in-law, she could not help but suspect that her mother-in-law had deliberately planned everything-spraining her foot, chancing upon Mr. Reading, and being sent home by him.

Mr. Reading was probably unknowingly used by Mrs. Stone.

What was Mrs. Stone's purpose in doing this?

Alice looked at her sister-in-law, who had not realized what was going on. If Alice guessed it right, her mother-in-law did that to create an opportunity for Elisa and Mr. Reading to meet and see if there would be sparks between them.

After all, Alice knew very well that her mother-in-law was against Elisa marrying off to a faraway land.

It was definitely possible for Mrs. Stone to set up something and introduce a few love rivals for Remy to stop Elisa from marrying into the Johnsons, who lived far away.

In fact, Alice admired Remy and thought that he was a good match for her sister-in-law. It was mainly because Elisa and Remy got along well.

Married at First Sight Chapter 1572—Nevertheless, Alice knew her in-laws would be reluctant for Elisa to be married far away.

As excellent as Remy was, he was from Annenburg, which was far from Wiltspoon. It would take about three hours one way by plane

If the Johnsons Oved in Wiltspoon, and Remy liked Elisa, everyone in the Stones would be extremely sst sfied There would not have been such an incident.

Clive punched his wife's hand, suggesting that she should not expose their mom even if she saw through

They should wait and see what would happen.

Clive loved his sister the most He felt that Remy was a great man but was also reluctant for her sister to be married off far If her sister had another option in Wiltspoon, he would not support Remy in pursuing her no matter what

As for Remy, he was very pressured.

Even if he and Elisa loved each other, it would not be easy for him to win her over.

Elsa did not have other thoughts. She thought that her whole family should be grateful to Andrew for sending their mom home.

She said after listening to her mom's words, "Mom, Mr. Reading helped you and sent you home. We're also very grateful to him. I told him that I'll treat him to a meal one day when he's free to thank him for sending you home."

Mrs. Stone replied to her, "That's right. Invite him over for a meal so that we can show our sincerity. It'll be a good time for me to thank him in person again. I hadn't been that helpless for decades-I felt really weak at that time.

"Luckily, I met Mr. Reading. He didn't ignore the situation just because it didn't concern him. Instead, he stopped his car and got out to ask what happened to me. After that, he even sent me back."

Mrs. Stone praised Andrew as much as she could.

Elisa was naive and did not know her mom was tricking her.

She responded, "Okay, then I'll invite him to our home for a meal so you can thank him properly. Everyone in the family is thankful, so you don't need to overpraise him, Mom."

"He saved me, so why can't I praise him? Besides, he's an excellent man. It's just that the Readings have always kept a low profile and never attended parties of the high society, so they're not well-known," Mrs. Stone said.

The Readings thought that Tania would easily attract attention after marrying into the Yorks-the richest family-and becoming the head missus. As her maiden family, they could only be low-key so as not to cause her trouble.

I wouldn't have paid attention to the Readings if Mr. Reading hadn't helped you today, Mom. It feels as if Zachary and his cousins don't interact much," Elisa noted.

"Would you know if they actually interacted?"

Elisa was speechless.

In the past, Zachary did not even look her in the eye, let alone talk to her.

Elisa learned to let go and gave her blessings to Zachary and Serenity. Moreover, Serenity was her little aunt's daughter, so she and Serenity were cousins. When Zachary addressed Elisa as his cousin for Serenity's sake, the interaction between them increased slightly.

Indeed, Elisa would not know if Zachary often interacted with his relatives.

"Madam, Mr. Johnson is here."

A maid brought Remy into the house.

Mrs. Stone was still praising Andrew a moment ago. When she heard that Remy was here, the smile on her face disappeared, and she looked serious instead.

Elisa looked at Remy.

She came to a realization when she saw Remy carrying many supplements with him. No wonder he did not follow her into the house to visit her mom when he heard that her mom had sprained her ankle. It turned out that he did not want to visit empty-handed.

Remy was attentive. He truly valued Elisa, which was why he valued her family.

"Mrs. Stone, I heard from Elisa that you sprained your foot, so I came to see you."

Remy went forward with the supplements, and Elisa got up to take them from him. "You could've just come. Why did you bring so many things over?"

"They're for your mom's recovery," Remy answered with a gentle smile.

Elisa placed the things he brought in front of her mom,

"Mom, Remy bought a lot of supplements for you."

Mrs. Stone pursed her lips and thanked Remy indifferently, "Mr. Johnson, you're too kind."

Married at First Sight Chapter 1573—Remy was not bothered by Mrs. Stone's attitude. He was pursuing his future wife, so he had to be thick-skinned.

He still asked with concern, "Mrs. Stone, have you applied ointment to your sprained foot? I also bought a few types of ointments for you. They're meant for treating sprains and bruises."

After hearing what he said, Elisa opened the few big bags and found a small bag from the pharmacy in one of them. Inside were several bottles of ointments for sprains and bruises.

"Remy, we have common ointments for families. My mom's foot has been treated with it," Elisa noted. Even so, she was moved by the fact that Remy brought ointments for her mom.

Remy valued her family, which meant that he valued her.

It turned out that being valued by the opposite sex could give such a warm feeling.

When Elisa used to pursue Zachary, he did not even want to see her, let alone value her.

Remy said, "As long as some ointment has been used. If it doesn't help, remember to go to the hospital and do a scan to see if her bones are injured."

Mrs. Stone remained indifferent and responded, "There's no need to do a scan. I only sprained it, so I just need to rest for a while and apply more ointment tomorrow. Thanks for your concern, Mr. Johnson."

Remy hummed. After Elisa sat, he sat next to her-and that irritated Mrs. Stone.

“Mr. Johnson, your house is still being renovated, so a lot is going on, right? I’m fine, so you can do what you need. Thanks for visiting me and bringing me so many supplements. We have plenty at home, but I appreciate your kindness.

Mrs. Stone did not want to see her daughter sitting together with Remy, so she simply asked him to leave.

Remy kept a gentle smile. Mrs. Stone could not help but admire his strong mentality. Although he was a favored child, he still maintained his good manners and smiled when she treated him coldly and gave him a long face.

“Mrs. Stone, your supplements belong to your family, whereas these are small gifts from me. I hope you don’t mind them.

“My house is still under renovation, so I’ll come and take a look every day. That said, I can’t help with anything and can only ask the renovator to follow my instructions. It’s fine for me to step away sometimes. After all, I’ve given the drawings to the renovator.”

Mrs. Stone’s face tensed up.

“Mom, Remy came to see you out of kindness. He hasn’t even had a glass of water yet.”

Elisa had not accepted Remy’s feelings, but she had always treated him as a friend. The two of them got along very well. She could not help but defend him when her mom showed him a bad attitude.

Mrs. Stone opened her mouth and finally ordered the maid, “Bring Mr. Johnson a glass of warm water

She could not go overboard in front of her daughter and could only glare at Remy.

Despite that, Remy was thick-faced. No matter how Mrs. Stone glared at him, he was calm and did not change his expression.

Since Elisa had spoken, even if Clive wanted to send Remy out, he could only sit still for the time being.

Clive was hoping that Remy would feel that his ego was bruised and would leave on his own.

His hope was doomed to fail.

Remy did not feel that his ego was hurt.

Married At First Sight Chapter 1574

Married at First Sight Chapter 1574—Remy recalled when his big brother and sister-in-law received their marriage license. When his sister-in-law knew his brother's true identity, her mom also tried everything to persuade them to divorce. Even so, Remy's brother did not feel that his ego was damaged and used his actions to prove his sincerity.

Remy's brother and sister-in-law were able to be in love now after his brother got rid of his mother-in-law's worries.

It was not Remy's first day receiving cold looks from Mrs. Stone. She had not been the nicest to him since she realized that he had other intentions.

Mrs. Stone would normally be careful about not letting Elisa know, but she no longer cared. Remy believed that Mrs. Stone must be determined to stop him and Elisa from getting together.

It would be a long and arduous journey for Remy to pursue his future wife.

Remy elegantly drank the glass of warm water. He did not forget to care for Mrs. Stone.

It took him half an hour to finish the glass of water.

He said after putting the glass down, "Mrs. Stone, excuse me. I'll head back and supervise the renovator's work now."

Elisa was worried that Remy would feel upset about her mom suddenly treating him with indifference. She got up and said, "Mom, I'll see Remy out."

Mrs. Stone wanted to say something but kept mum in the end. She watched with a tense face as her daughter sent Remy out.

As for the supplements and ointments brought by Remy, once he left the main house, Mrs. Stone instructed her son and daughter-in-law, "Clive, Ally, throw away all the things Remy brought. They annoy me."

Alice said, "Mom, Mr. Johnson did it out of kindness. He and Elisa are friends, and he's also our new neighbor. It was nice of him as a neighbor to send you some ointments when he found out that you sprained your foot. It won't be a good idea to throw them away, will it?"

Clive said, "I see that Elisa and Remy get along very well and that she also defends him. Mom, if you ask us to throw everything away, Elisa won't be happy when she finds out."

Mrs. Stone said with a dark face, "Remy is clearly trying to snatch your sister away, and yet you're giving him face."

"Mom, I'm also reluctant for Elisa to be married far away, but let her deal with her relationships on her own. I believe she can handle it. Elisa has been hurt before, and it was hard for her to click with Remy, so let's give him a chance."

Clive could not bear to see her sister married off to a distance, but he also thought that Remy was a good match for her.

"If you can't bear to see it happen, we must break their love before they fall deeper into it. Elisa's love for Zachary hurt her very much. How many times has she cried in front of you?"

"Mom, this is different. Zachary never liked Elisa, much less promised her anything. On the other hand, Remy likes Elisa and confessed to her. I think that she has feelings for him as well."

Mrs. Stone said persistently, "I don't care. In any case, I won't let Elisa get married to Annenburg. Break them off while they've just started to develop feelings for each other."

Remy had confessed to Elisa, but Elisa had not accepted his feelings.

Mrs. Stone thought that it was not too late to break them off at this time.

Moreover, she must not waste her effort in arranging for Andrew and Elisa to meet. Of course, only she and her husband knew about the plan.

Mrs. Stone had filtered the young, talented, and handsome men in Wiltspoon. She thought the Readings and the Stones were well-matched. Although Andrew was Zachary's cousin, Andrew kept a low profile. If he did not reveal it, nobody would know that he was Zachary's cousin.

Nothing happened between Elisa and Zachary anyway, and it was all in the past. Mrs. Stone thought that Andrew would not mind. After all, everyone had their past.

"Clive, I asked you to talk to Remy. Have you spoken to him yet?"

Mrs. Stone looked at her son.

Clive answered, "Mom... I'm very busy. I haven't found the time to talk to him, but I'll go and talk to him in person later."

Married at First Sight Chapter 1575—Mrs. Stone said to Clive, “If you’re going to talk to Remy, talk to him before it’s too late. Don’t let the two of them fall deeply in love. In particular, your sister still feels uncomfortable when she thinks about Zachary now. Don’t think that I don’t know.”

It was just that Zachary became her niece’s husband, so she could not say more.

Therefore, Zachary would not come to visit the Stones unless he had to. He would only come for Serenity.

Clive said, “Mom, Elisa has let go of Zachary. She’s calm when she faces him now.”

Following that, he added, “Mom, was it an accident that you sprained your foot? What’s going on with Andrew? Were you trying to create an opportunity for him and Elisa? Andrew is Zachary’s cousin. Even if the Readings keep a low profile, they’re related to the Yorks by marriage. That’s a hard fact.”

Mrs. Stone choked and looked at the door to make sure her daughter would not come in. She responded, “There aren’t many families in Wiltspoon that are well-matched with us. Andrew is Zachary’s cousin, but they’re of the same age. He’s only a few months younger than Zachary, but he’s mature, calm, and gentle. “Andrew and Remy are the same type of person. Since Elisa can get along well with Remy, she can definitely get along with Andrew. She and Zachary didn’t really have a past since he never liked her nor promised her anything.

“Andrew must be aware of all this. As long as he likes Elisa, I think it’ll be good for them to get together. As long as it’ll stop her and Remy from getting together.”

Mrs. Stone looked at the door again and lowered her voice much more as she continued, “I’m going to do another screening to see which other families have young and handsome guys who are suitable for Elisa. I’ll arrange for a few more people to pursue her even if it’s an act.

“It’ll be best if we can stop Remy and Elisa from getting together. Even if she accepts him in the end and wants to be with him, he’ll be pressured and nervous if he has a few love rivals. In that case, Remy will treasure Elisa more in the future.”

Clive was speechless.

He had thought that his mom was overpraising Andrew just now. Sure enough, it was something she set up to prevent Elisa from getting married far away. Andrew and Elisa were dragged into the plan.

“Keep this to yourselves and don’t let Elisa know.”

Mrs. Stone reminded her son and daughter-in-law.

“Elisa is my only daughter, and I love her the most. I can’t bear to see her getting married somewhere far away.”

Mrs. Stone sighed again after she finished.

Remy was an excellent man whom she admired.

Unfortunately, he was from Annenburg. If Elisa married him, she would be going far away.

Mrs. Stone was reluctant for that to happen!

She could only be a bad person for once.

Elisa did not know her mom’s sprained foot was a plot she made to create an opportunity for Andrew and her to meet.

After sending Remy out of the villa, Elisa did not go back inside right away. She accompanied him to the big villa that was still under renovation.

“Remy, don’t take what my mom said to heart.”

It was Elisa’s first time seeing her mom being unfriendly toward Remy. Her mom even asked him to leave.

Elisa recalled her mom treating Remy nicely in the past.

Remy smiled gently and said, “I forgot what she said earlier. Her sprained foot must be painful, so it’s normal for her to be in a bad mood.

Elisa stopped and looked at him.

Remy looked at her as well.

“Remy, my mom might’ve found out about your feelings for me. She probably doesn’t like us getting together.”

Elisa was not dumb. Her mom was not always enthusiastic toward Remy, but she would never ask him to leave as she did today.

Elisa's mom probably acted like that because she either found out or noticed that Remy confessed to Elisa. However, since Remy was from Annenburg, Elisa's mom was unwilling to let her get married far away. She started to be hostile toward Remy and wanted to stop him and Elisa from getting together.

Elisa had not even made up her mind.

Remy said after a moment of silence, "I know your mom doesn't like that my home is too far away, but I'll work hard so that she'll accept me. Elisa, sweet words are useless. The only way to prove that my feelings for you are genuine is to let the facts speak for themselves."
